Alleges mayor and others 'conspired' to drive him out

BY GEOFF BELCHER
NEWS EDITOR

Former Diamondhead City Manager Clovis Reed has filed a federal lawsuit against the city, Mayor Tommy Schafer, Councilwoman Nancy Depreo, and others, alleging they engaged in a "conspiracy to harm" his reputation and "interfere" with his "employment relationship" with the city.

The suit also names as defendants private individuals Terry King, Margaret Dutton, Karen Rice, former Sea Coast Echo staff writer Dwayne Bremer, Nicole Boisdore and Elaine Bienvenue.

Reed, who now lives in Rankin County, served as Diamondhead city manager from September 2014 until he resigned in May 2017.

Reed did not give an official reason for his resignation at the time, and wished the city well in the future. However, his resignation came after some political turmoil and pub-

NASHVILLE TEENS VOLUNTEER IN HANCOCK COUNTY

The youths on Wednesday washed cars at the Hancock County Senior Citizens Center, one of many projects the group completed this week.

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
STAFF WRITER

This week, several teenage volunteers from two parishes in the Nashville, Tennessee area volunteered at local residences and community organizations in observance of Servio Deo, which means "Serving God," in Latin.

Group chaperones Monica Bonnell and Misty Welsch said the 150 youths — ranging in age from 12-to-18-years-old — hail from Holy Family and St. Matthews parishes.

The youths worked on more than 30 projects in the Bay St. Louis and Waveland area and stayed at St. Stanislaus dormitories.

"It's an annual service project," Welsch said. "We've been coming here for the past eight years."

Projects this year included: Staining a deck for a veteran, cleaning sheds and carports; and building a handicap ramp, Bonnell said.

Chaperone Thomas Mattingly said the mission's decision to come to this area was the brainchild of Lisa and Josh Vegors, who were familiar with the area.

He said that there are about 18 work groups and some volunteer at the food pantry and childrens' shelter.

The group teams up with the Hancock Resource Center to find available service projects.

"We look for yard cleaning and painting projects," he said. "It's real intimate when someone is there and the youth can sit and talk with them."

Welsch said it's been a great experience for the children.

"It's great to see how hard they're working," she said. "They have a

Local business owner arrested

contract fraud

BY GEOFF BELCHER

Hancock County business owner Keith Marquar on Friday turned himself in at the Hancock County Justice facility after a former client of his construction firm filed criminal charges against him on an allegedly fraudulent contract agreement.

Marquar, 46, was booked at 11:22 a.m. on Friday on one count of false pretense and one count of embezzlement: money on deposit; property in trust. He was released less than an hour later on a $5,000 bond, jail records show.

It's the second time in less than a month that Marquar has been arrested. He was booked last month on one count of false pretense.

"An individual signed an affidavit against him for false pretense with regards to contractual work on their property," Hancock

Keith Marquar

County Deputy Chief Don Bass said at the time.

The charges on which Marquar was briefly incarcerated Friday were from a similar case, Bass said.

"The charges stem from August 2017," Bass said, "from a location on Pleasure Street. He was supposed to do a job (for a client) and (allegedly) never got around to it."

Bass said the embezzlement charge is based on the allegation that Marquar took money from the complainant to purchase materials, but never delivered them to the job site.

Summer's here – and it's HOT!

Most of the members of our younger generation have already begun their summer vacation. In my school days, we had a three-month summer vacation, but that has changed some over the years.

Many families will be making out-of-town trips soon while the kids are out of school, whether to some exotic locale or to see relatives living in other states – this generation moves around a lot more than folks did in my day.

Not every child these days gets the opportunity to attend the same school district for the first 12 years of their education because many people change jobs more frequently these days and move from state to state in search of work. Technology is ever-changing, and that changes the whole employment landscape.

A few members of my generation who were born and raised in Hancock County still live here, and I hear many of them tell me that their lives were much more difficult when they were younger than they are these days; but, they remember the good things about those times, too. For instance, in the 1930s and '40s, neighbors looked out for each other, especially for the children.

Even though few people had telephones in their homes in those days, the parents in the neighborhood were always able to keep track of what their children were doing, and my brothers and I would often come home to find our folks angry because someone, somehow, had told them what we'd been up to.

Since so many more people are transient these days, I believe that has somewhat diminished our overall sense of community and that has made a huge difference in our lifestyles.

And that's how it always goes.

As society advances – as technology advances – times change, but people don't, really.

When the next generation comes along, they'll think of the current generation the same way the current generation thinks of my generation.

I'm sure every generation of people from the beginning of time has felt the same way.

I'd like the younger generation to know that I look kindly upon them, and I hope they feel the same about us old-timers.

Have a great summer vacation, kids. Enjoy it while you can.

Wicker Champions Policies to Protect the Unborn

Congress, Administration Seek to Fortify Ban on Taxpayer Funding of Abortion

Efforts to protect the unborn are gaining ground across all branches of the government. New bills in Congress, a proposed rule by the Trump Administration, and an important legal case, which I hope will go before the Supreme Court, reaffirm how important it is to defend the sanctity of life.

The use of taxpayer money to fund abortions is already prohibited by law, but there are still organizations, like Planned Parenthood, that receive federal money for health services other than abortions. Like many Americans, I am deeply troubled that taxpayer money could be at all associated with organizations that provide or promote a practice that so many morally oppose. I have consistently used my vote in the Senate to prevent federal funding for Planned Parenthood.

Legislative Initiatives

Two of my bills this Congress would significantly strengthen our efforts to put an end to the unjust taking of human life. One is my "No Taxpayer Funding for Abortion and Abortion Insurance Full Disclosure Act," which would make permanent the "Hyde amendment" currently passed into law every year by Congress to ban taxpayer funding for abortions. The bill would also require any Obamacare plans to inform consumers whether abortion services are part of their coverage.

My other bill, titled the "Patients First Act," would build on work that I did in the House of Representatives to prohibit any federal funding from going toward human embryonic stem cell research. This bill would reverse President Obama's executive order that allowed for this type of embryonic research. What we should be promoting is the use of adult stem cells that have been ethically obtained. In my judgment, the creation, use, or destruction of embryos for research purposes crosses too many ethical lines.

I have also cosponsored and voted for the "Pain-Capable Unborn Child Protection Act." This bill would make it illegal to perform an abortion when an unborn child has reached 20 weeks or older, except in rare circumstances.

CRUSHING

Did the Bay St. Louis City Council violate the Miss. Open Meetings Act on May 8?

To the Editor:

At the outset, let me say that The Hancock County Alliance for Good Government has no interest in the personalities involved in the Bay St. Louis Historic Preservation Commission. What we do have an interest in, as per our Mission Statement, is keeping the political process clean, regardless of the individuals involved in the execution of the public's business.

On the evening of May 8, at their regular meeting, the Bay St. Louis City Council, after exiting Executive Session, acted on an item of business that was NOT on their advertised Agenda. That item of business was the dismissal of a Commissioner from the Bay St. Louis Historic Preservation Commission.

During the course of the meeting at the second Public Forum, Ward II resident, Teri Velardi, asked Council if they were going to take any kind of action that evening regarding the Historic Preservation Commission. She actually polled the Council one by one. All said "no."

Council President, Gene Hoffman, who represents Ward II, said that there could be some issues with the Commission, but not that night. Velardi pressed them with the possibility of an Executive Session on the issue, and all either said they had no issues that night with the Commission or as Ward IV Councilman, Larry Smith said, "I have no opinion at this time on the Commission."

When Council President Hoffman entertained a motion to consider going into Executive Session, City Attorney, Heather Smith, was the only one to say that she had a property purchase and 4 or 5 litigation issues to discuss with Council. The motion by Councilman DeSalvo, and seconded by Councilman Smith passed unanimously to go into closed session.

When Council re-entered regular session, Councilman Smith motioned to dismiss Commissioner Ellis Anderson from the Historic Preservation Commission. His motion was seconded and carried with the exception of Council-at-Large, Knoblock, who had not yet re-entered the Council Chambers from Executive Session, taking a bathroom break. The motion was made, seconded, no discussion, passed. Done.

The Miss. Open Meetings Act states in section 25-41-5 (3), that an Agenda of items to be acted upon must be prepared and made available to the members of the public body and

Drug to Reverse Effects of Opioid Overdose Now Available From Mississippi Pharmacists

SEA COAST ECHO

JACKSON, Miss. – In a continued effort to curb the opioid epidemic in Mississippi, a drug proven to reverse the effects of an opioid overdose is now available by request directly from a pharmacist at all Mississippi pharmacies. Through a standing order issued by Mississippi State Health Officer Dr. Mary Currier, pharmacists are now permitted to dispense by request the narcotic blocker naloxone. A prescription from a doctor or other medical practitioner is not required.

In an overdose, this drug blocks the brain's opioid receptors and restores normal breathing in people who have overdosed on fentanyl, heroin, or prescription opioid painkillers. Naloxone's temporary blocking effect allows time for professional medical attention to be sought.

"Expansion of the availability and use of this drug could greatly reduce drug overdose deaths and save lives," said Dr. Currier. "It's important that Mississippians – any family member, friend or other person in a position to help someone suffering from an opioid overdose – are aware of the availability of this drug and know how to administer it if the need arises."

Mississippi has seen a significant increase in the number of opioid overdose deaths in the last several years, with 172 in 2016 compared with 76 in 2011, an increase of more than 125 percent. In that same five year time span, more than 700 opioid overdose deaths were reported in Mississippi.

You should know how to use naloxone and have it within reach if you are a patient currently taking high doses of opioids prescribed for pain, someone misusing prescription opioids, someone who uses illicit opioids such as heroin or fentanyl, or if you live with or are often in the presence of people with an opioid use disorder.

Naloxone has no effect on someone not using opioid drugs.

"We applaud Dr. Currier's wisdom in offering another tool in our battle against opioid abuse and overdose deaths," said Frank Gammill, executive director of the Mississippi Board of Pharmacy. "I am confident this will save lives. I challenge all pharmacies in Mississippi to participate in this standing order and offer this life-saving medication to their communities."

Gammill said the Board of Pharmacy will continue in its effort to educate pharmacists and the public about naloxone.

"My staff will be immediately reaching out to pharmacists across the state to inform them of the details of this standing order," he said.

already shown his willingness to stand up for the rights of the unborn. Last year, he reinstated the Mexico City policy, which prevents taxpayer dollars from going to international nongovernmental organizations with abortion services.

More recently, the Trump Administration has proposed a rule to prohibit any family planning organization that receives Title X funding from making referrals for abortions or being located in a place that provides abortions. This rule would stop federal funding for organizations like Planned Parenthood that include abortion as part of its family planning services. It would also help ensure that taxpayer dollars are not subsidizing abortions in any way. The new rule is similar to a policy put forward by the Reagan Administration and later rescinded by the Clinton Administration.

Judicial Review
In addition to Title X funding, I am leading an amicus brief signed by 23 other senators urging the Supreme Court to take up the important case of Gee v. Planned Parenthood Gulf Coast. A Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals ruling in the case currently prohibits states, including Mississippi, from eliminating taxpayer funding for Planned Parenthood through Medicaid. I hope the Supreme Court will take up this case and rule in favor of states' rights and the unborn.

These efforts across the government point to a significant moment in the fight for the unborn. I will continue to champion policies that respect human life and the proper use of taxpayer funds. I look forward to seeing these policies succeed during this Congress and Administration.

the public "at the time of the meeting."

An examination of the Agenda published for the May 8, meeting for public review and made available before the meeting did NOT include the dismissal of a Commissioner from the Historic Preservation Commission.

The Hancock County Alliance for Good Government contends that this action by the City Council prohibited the public from their right to know that a Commissioner was being dismissed, and their right to either listen to the deliberation or comment on the subject at one of the Public Forums that evening.

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Board did the same thing last August, 2017, when they voted to go into Executive Session under the pretense of a personnel issue, and after exiting the Executive Session, voted 3 to 2, Kidd, Bell, and Thomas for; Arnold and Favre against, to extend for 4 years the contracts of Superintendent Vikki Landry and her brother, Business Administrator, Jon McCraw.

The Miss. Ethics Commission upheld a complaint against the School Board finding them in violation of the above mentioned statute, and put them on notice to refrain from this practice in the future, and to act only on items that have been included in their published Agenda. Failure to abide by a written finding of the Ethics Commission can result in a fine for the public officials in violation.

This type of behavior by two public entities in Bay St. Louis begs the question, "where were the publicly paid attorneys for these public bodies? Why didn't they stop their clients from violating a law that so clearly protects the public's right to know?!"

Not to mention, Council President, Gene Hoffman himself is a practicing attorney.

Is it time to report the Bay St. Louis City Council to the Ethics Commission? They don't seem able to discipline themselves, and their legal counsel, like the School Board's, in my opinion, neglected her responsibility to keep her clients within the confines of state law, and protect the public that provides her compensation.

Suit

lic squabbles with Schafer.

The last incident before his resignation was a disagreement over the propriety of his mailing city-purchased promotional brochures to Diamondhead residents without council authorization, just weeks before the then-upcoming municipal elections. Reed alleges in the suit that his problems with Schafer began not long after he was hired. According to the suit, "Mayor" Schafer informed Mr. Reed that (he) should not look too closely at various invoices received by the city from outside contractors, because the mayor was often reimbursed expenses from those contractors.

"Mr. Reed complained about the 'mayor's' comments and raised the issue of the legality of such conduct. The mayor was not happy about Mr. Reed's refusal to disregard the illegality" of the alleged arrangements.

Reed alleges that Schafer's "core issue" was the power structure -- under the city's charter, the city manager position handles day-to-day operations, while the mayor serves as more of a "figurehead."

Reed claims that Schafer worked to undermine him as city manager, and verbally attacked him "in both public and private settings" and made "false allegations" against him.

The council took no actions on Reed's requests to intervene, the suit alleges, and Reed "began to suffer from stress-related health issues."

The suit further alleges that the "mayor" and his conspirators continued to push a false and malicious narrative against Mr. Reed, even conspiring with private citizens and others to pursue the witch hunt" in order to "defame" him and "force him out as the city manager."

The suit claims Reed "has suffered emotional distress, lost wages, the loss of his good name and standing in the community and continues to suffer anxiety, worry and stress as a direct and proximate result of the defendants' actions."

Reed is asking that the court rule the defendants' actions violated his constitutional rights under the First and Fourteenth Amendments to the U.S. Constitution; award "appropriate equitable relief" and "nominal and actual damages" and "compensatory damages, including, but not limited to, past and future pecuniary and non-pecuniary losses, emotional distress, suffering, loss of reputation, humiliation, inconvenience, mental anguish, loss of enjoyment of life, and non-pecuniary losses."

A lawsuit tells only the plaintiff's side in a dispute.

Schafer said Friday that he would "love" to comment on the suit, but "I've been advised, as is usual, that we do not discuss pending litigation. This is something I would love to comment on, and look forward to the opportunity to do so in court."

Despite frequent requests, the sheriff's office will not release the names of the complainants in the cases against Marquar. Sheriff Ricky Adam has said he does not wish that the alleged victim or victims in the cases be held up for public ridicule or harassment.

The U.S. Freedom of Information Act does not apply to state or local agencies, such as sheriff's offices, which in Mississippi are governed by the state Public Records Act. The Mississippi Public Records Act states that law enforcement officials are not required to release the names of crime victims.

Some of Marquar's friends and relatives have alleged on social media that he is being "railroaded" because he recently filed suit against the city of Bay St. Louis, Mayor Mike Favre and former Councilman Lonnie Falgout. The suit was filed in federal court last April on behalf of Keith Marquar and L&L Marine Construction, LLC, which is not actually listed as a business, according to the Mississippi Secretary of State's Office.

L&L Construction Services, LLC, with a business address at CC Road in Kiln, is listed in "good standing" with the Mississippi Secretary of State's office. Brandy Marquar, Keith Marquar's wife, is listed as the manager.

According to the suit, Wayne McCants hired Marquar and L&L Construction to build a bulkhead and pier at 144 Elaine Dr. and that then-Ward 6 Councilman Lonnie Falgout, who owns the adjacent property at 146 Elaine Dr., opposed the project and filed objections with the Mississippi Department of Marine Resources and Army Corps of Engineers to halt it.

"When these efforts failed, Mr. Falgout changed tactics," according to the suit. "Initially, he invited Mr. Marquar to lunch and tried to strong-arm (him) into abandoning the project. Mr. Marquar refused to be intimidated, informing Falgout that he would continue. Lonnie Falgout became angry and threatened that he would use his position as city councilman to destroy Mr. Marquar and his business."

The suit alleges that Falgout "intentionally" interfered with the business relationships of Marquar and L&L by contacting clients and urging them to fire L&L and file complaints with the city's building department. The suit further alleges that Marquar and L&L were slandered, claiming that Falgout published "numerous emails and Facebook posts falsely stating that there are numerous complaints against Marquar and L&L filed with the city building department."

Marquar is seeking a trial and a total of $4.5 million in compensatory and punitive damages, plus attorney's fees, plus "any other further relief" the judge may deem appropriate.

Falgout has denied Marquar's claims.

Marquar filed his candidacy for one of the seats on the Bay-Waveland School Board of Trustees in 2015, but was later disqualified for the race because the election commission could not verify that he had a valid high school diploma.

Coffee

LaFontaine said another highlight was the 25-year lease agreement with Ochsner.

Other highlights from the past six months include: Pearl River Community College's purchase of six acres at Stennis Airport for a future campus; expanding community education programs for elderly and youth; expanding recreation offerings and amenities at the arena and McLeod Park; the county's receipt of the first of 10 installments of Gulf of Mexico Energy Security Act (GOMESA) funds in the amount about $1 million; and the creation of county court.

The board budgeted $500,000 for road paving and has started replacement of the White Cypress and Flat Top bridges, LaFontaine said.

"Hancock County is the first county in the state of Mississippi to partner with the cities to adopt a regional pavement preservation plan," he said. "At the expense of about $100,000-plus dollars, we had an outside firm come in and they are looking at doing a complete evaluation of the status of all our roads on a national scale then bring forth recommendations for a capital spending plan for all of us over the next several years."

The board has also applied for a Washington Street ADA public access project for FY2019, he said. MDOT is also set to begin a $2.1 million turning-lanes project and the county recently partnered with the city of Waveland to fund the Lighthouse Project and beach parking, LaFontaine said.

Several amenities were added throughout the county including: Four new playgrounds in Bay St. Louis, Necaise, Dedeaux and Bayside; a $500,000 expansion at McLeod Park; and the opening of the $6.5 million five-field sports complex.

With regards to tourism, the board got legislation approved to pass a two percent tax over the regional visitors bureau, LaFontaine said.

"That tourism bureau has about a $4.5 million budget and Hancock County has three representatives on there, so we wanted to ensure that we had legislation that allowed us to continue to stay a member."

After LaFontaine's overview, the board answered some of the public's questions.

One of the questions posed is if there is a defined use for the GOMESA funds.

LaFontaine said the legislature is still laying out the groundwork.

Another question posed involved tax abatement and tax increment financing (TIF) possibilities.

Hancock County Tax Assessor Jimmy Ladner said that the important thing to remember about an abatement, is that a "game-changing" entity needs to be brought to the area, something that's not there.

With a TIF, the entity "would pledge the taxes generated from the project to pay back the debt service," Ladner said.

"Sometimes that's good, but again, you have to make sure that it's a project that's going to be a game changer in the area and help generate taxes by what's going to locate around it," he said. "If a city pledges its sales tax to a TIF, it still has to provide access to that project and still has to maintain that access."

One of the final questions posed was how sending the two percent bed tax to the regional tourism agency would affect the local tourism agency.

In 2013, leadership in Jackson and on the Gulf Coast felt that it would be in the best interest of the entire coast to form a regional tourism bureau, LaFontaine said.

He added that Hancock County faced losing seats on the regional board. According to the legislation, LaFontaine said, the entity must contribute monetarily.

"We generate about $130,000 in two percent tax," he said.

LaFontaine said the amount of grant funding acquired and programs implemented by the local West Coast Tourism Bureau have had an economic impact.

"Moving forward, the board of supervisors felt that it would be a detriment long-term to our community if we lost our potential seats," he said. "On our local tourism bureau, of the $130,000 that we have in the West Coast board, $100,000 is overhead and costs."

Locally, the county is spending about $20,000 to $30,000 on tourism and depend mostly on grants, LaFontaine said.

On Oct. 1, the two-percent tax will be sent to the regional bureau, he added.

LaFontaine said the West Coast board has met with the regional bureau.

He said a plan for managing what the county will receive for its contribution is still in the "discussion stages."

The next Coffee Call is scheduled for June 29 at 8 a.m. with Waveland Mayor Mike Smith at Rum Kitchen.

genuine interest in the folks and helping."

Bonnell said one thing the teens noticed is "how friendly people are here."

On Wednesday, a group of volunteers arrived at the Hancock County Senior Center and washed the senior citizens' cars.

Lily Dixon, 13, said this is her second time volunteering in the area. She said she likes meeting new people.

"We went to a lady's house, cleaned her shed and organized things," Dixon said. "We got to visit her for a long time. She's really nice and has a lot of stories."

Ella Saliba, 14, said this is her first trip here and that the area is "different from Brentwood."

"All the neighbors support each other," she said. "They rely on each other for help because some don't have a lot. It's my favorite part and has inspired me to want to do more. I'm fortunate to have the abilities I have to help."

Senior George A. McCullum, in addition to having his vehicle washed, said the volunteers also completed work at his home.

McCullum said they cleaned his yard; sprayed the house for mold; trimmed trees; cut bamboo; cleaned the gardens; cleaned the gutters and planted plants.

He described the youths as "respectful."

"It feels kind of rewarding," he said. "I know it's a diversion for them and gives them a great work ethic. It also teaches them camaraderie. Overall, I've enjoyed it. They are putting in hands-on work and seeing the results of their efforts and knowing that it takes hard work along the way. I realize I can't do a lot of what I used to."

BEST TIME TO LOOK FOR A TRIPLE TAIL

We have been seeing triple tails most every day, the past few weeks!!! From Cat Island, all the way to Lake Borgne, and all points in between.

Watch for anything and everything floating or at the surface of the water. Any buoy, piling, float, bucket, dead animal, etc is worth a good once over.

We have caught triple tails with minnows, soft plastics, flies, but probably the best bait of all, is a big live shrimp. As long as you can get something near the face of a triple tail, they will almost always take a swipe at it. Just try not to hit them on the head, causing them to spook.

SHORE THING FISHING REPORT

by Capt. Sonny Schindler

The best times of day to look for triple tail are when the sun is higher in the sky. If you are lucky enough to get calm seas and little to no current, that is when those big triple tails come to the surface. I saw my first triple tail this year on April 7th on the east side of Cat Island. Fellow Shore Thing guide, Capt Ray "Slay Ray" Necaise has been seeing them almost single day, between Bay St Louis and the Louisiana Marsh. It looks like it is going to be a great year for these tasty, hard fighting fish. All you need catch them are 3 simple things: Time, Fuel, and Luck.

 Triple tails must be a minimum of 18 inches in both MS and LA waters. You are allowed to keep 3 per person in MS and 5 per person in LA.

30 free family law clinics scheduled in June

SEA COAST ECHO

Thirty free family law clinics are scheduled across the state during June, which is Access to Justice Month. Low-income people who need help with family law matters such as guardianships to enroll children in school, uncontested divorce, legal name change and emancipation may be able to find legal assistance at one of the clinics. “We hope to see more hours of legal services donated this month to assist our needy citizens than at any time other than during large scale natural disasters,” said Mississippi Supreme Court Chief Justice Bill Waller Jr. “The unmet civil legal needs of the poor are a silent and less visible source of suffering. Unmet legal needs exacerbate the effects of poverty.”

individuals who cannot afford an attorney. MVLPC is fortunate to work with attorneys across this state who dedicate countless hours to making sure we restore hope in the lives of our underserved residents.” Civil legal clinics scheduled throughout June and later this year are designed to give people enough basic legal advice and directions so that they can handle simple legal matters on their own in Chancery Court. Attorneys at the legal clinics will help clients prepare documents, give limited legal advice and help them get ready to go to court on their own. The kinds of matters which may be addressed may vary at the different clinics. Limitations, if any, are posted on the clinic schedule on the Mississippi Judiciary website at this link: <https://courts.ms.gov/newsite2/Legal/CivilLegal.php>

Here’s the schedule for local clinics in June:

- Hancock County, June 19, 1-4 p.m., Hancock County Chancery Court, 152 Main Street, Bay St. Louis;
- Harrison County, June 19, 1-4 p.m., 730 Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Boulevard, Biloxi;

People seeking legal assistance must register in advance and be screened for eligibility based on income. Eligibility to attend a clinic is limited to people whose income is at or below 200 percent of the federal poverty level. For example, that would be an annual income of $24,280 or less for an individual; an annual income of $32,920 or less for a two-person household; $41,560 or less for a family of three; or $50,200 or less for a family of four, based on the 2018 federal poverty guidelines of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. For more information, contact Access to Justice Commission Executive Director Nicole McLaughlin at 601-960-9581 or nmclaughlin@msbar.org.

Approximately 695,000 people in Mississippi, a fifth of the state’s population, live at or below poverty level, and about 1.3 million of the impoverished and the working poor – almost 45 percent of the state’s population – qualify for civil legal aid. Many struggle to represent themselves pro se in court without the assistance of an attorney. Chief Justice Waller has called for civil legal clinics to be held throughout the state. Every Chancery Court district has agreed to host a free civil legal clinic this year. Local bar associations have worked with the Access to Justice Commission and the Mississippi Volunteer Lawyers Project to organize the clinics. Access to Justice Commission Executive Director Nicole McLaughlin said, “Civil legal aid helps people protect their livelihoods, their health and their families. We are proud that our legal community continues to support access to justice for those in need. Through the scheduled legal clinics, we will be able to assist an unprecedented amount of Mississippians with family law issues.” Gayla Carpenter-Sanders, executive director and general counsel of the Mississippi Volunteer Lawyers Project, said, “Pro bono work helps to bring closure to legal matters for

OLA students earn elite academic scholarships

SEA COAST ECHO

Our Lady Academy recognized students who earned individual scholarships for their academic excellence and outstanding leadership at the school's annual Award Ceremony on May 17, 2018. Senior Anna Denette received the newly founded Dana Hebert Art Scholarship. Dana Hebert is an honorary student at OLA who has attended art class once a week for the past 3 years. Because of her dedication and love of art, her mother, Karen Hebert wanted to honor her by recognizing a graduating senior who has this same dedication and love. Anna was the recipient of this award and $500 to go towards her continued education in art and design. Anna will be attending the University of Southern Mississippi with the Golden Opportunity Scholarship and plans to study art and graphic design. The Furman Scholars scholarships recognize students that have a keen interest in liberal arts and science; a GPA of 3.5 or higher; a 29 or higher on the ACT; and significant involvement in community service and leadership. Recognized as Furman Scholars were juniors: Margaret Spencer White, Cece Cottone, Marguerite Gelpi, Kennady Hertz, Taylor Slade, and Georgia Zanca.

The Marie L. Powers Scholarship was founded by her daughter, a teacher at OLA, Marie Bartels. Marie Powers was a long-time volunteer at OLA and an ardent supporter of all-girls Catholic education. The scholarship is awarded to underclassman, who by their daily actions and positive attitude demonstrate love and pride in OLA. The recipients were: Cali Reinhart, Elizabeth Elkins and Samantha Arcana. With this award, each of these students will receive a $600.00 scholarship towards their continued education at OLA.

Meet Arianna. We are seeking a very special family for this darling, 1 year old sweetheart with a heart of gold. This pretty gal has a slight head tilt, which we think is very endearing and adorable. The tilt, however, is the result of an injury sustained when Arianna was struck by a car. She has been receiving medical care and rehabilitation at our vet, and she is now healthy and ready to find her forever home. Because she will always have the tilt and perhaps a slight balance or coordination issue, she must be an inside only kitty in a relatively calm household. We feel that Arianna would be the ideal companion for a single person or couple, retirees, seniors, or a family with older children. She is fine with other cats, but we would not recommend a home with dogs. She is also litter box trained. If you feel you could provide Arianna with a loving home in an environment where she will thrive, please contact our front desk at 228-466-4516 to arrange a meet-n-greet. Visit our Facebook page, Hancock County Animal Shelter, MS, to see more pictures of Arianna, and of the many other wonderful, adoptable fur babies looking for their forever homes.

LEARNING FROM PROVEN LEADERS ABOUT GOD'S WISDOM

Not too long ago a friend of mine and I attended a FCA (Fellowship of Christian Athletes) Banquet in a neighboring town. There were several college coaches that spoke and the featured speaker was Bobby Bowden, former coach of Florida State University football team. His career spanned many years and he became one of the best known coaches in college football. His won-lost record was one that many would envy and his leadership abilities were tremendous. He spoke to the large crowd of men and women attending and told how he was able to achieve the many accolades that he has received. The one thing the 89 year old coach emphasized was that it wasn't him that produced his success but it was his faith in God, the wisdom he attained from reading and adhering to God's Word, and a very loving, caring, and supporting wife and family. Coach Bowden spoke to the crowd about his faith in Jesus Christ. He told of being raised in a Christian home by Godly parents who loved the Lord and was told at an early age about the saving grace of Jesus. He spoke of his wife Ann and the gracious and Godly person and mother she is. He witnessed to his football players as a team and individually. He saw some of them come to the saving grace of Jesus. He told of his children and how blessed he and his wife have been to see them become great parents and productive citizens. He also told of how each one of them had accepted Christ and is a witness for Him. One of the most touching parts of his talk was when he relayed the tragic story of how his son-in-law and grandson were killed in an automobile wreck at the hands of Hurricane Frances in September of 2004. They were buried on a Thursday and Coach Bowden and his wife, along with his football team, boarded a plane on Friday for Miami for a football game against the University of Miami. The morning after the game as he sat in the Miami airport he penned a letter to his children and grandchildren about the tragedy that just occurred in their family. I am paraphrasing his letter in which he told of the bond of love their family had for each other and how he had witnessed the inner strength of his daughter Ginger in the loss of a husband and son. He wrote in his letter that even though these two are not on earth anymore he knew that through their salvation and belief in Christ that they were with Jesus in their heavenly home and how one day all of the family will be together again if all of them trust in Jesus and surrender their lives to Him. He said that when he dies he will go to heaven. He also said should any of his family not come to join him in heaven when their days of earth are over, he would consider himself to have failed in life. "All of the statues, trophies, championships, etc. will be in vain because somewhere along the way I failed you, if you are not there." His story to his family and to all in attendance at this FCA Banquet was to emphasize that now is the time to recommit your life to Christ.

RESOLUTION OF HANCOCK COUNTY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS DECLARING INTENT TO IMPOSE 2% HOTEL AND MOTEL TAX AS AUTHORIZED BY SENATE BILL NO. 3072 AND TO AUTHORIZE AND DESIGNATE THE FUNDS FOR USE BY THE MISSISSIPPI GULF COAST REGIONAL CONVENTION AND VISITORS BUREAU

Comes now, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, and approves the following resolution declaring its intent to impose a 2% Hotel and Motel Tax as per Senate Bill No. 3072, Regular Session 2018, for the purposes stated therein.

WHEREAS, Senate Bill No. 3072, Regular Session 2018 authorizes the Board of Supervisors to impose a 2% Hotel and Motel occupancy tax on the gross proceeds of sales derived from room rentals by hotels, motels and similar establishments in Hancock County for the purposes detailed in said legislation; and

WHEREAS, Supervisors have declared their intent to impose that tax in the amount of 2% of those gross proceeds of sales, contingent upon compliance with the procedural requirements of said Senate Bill, and to designate the proceeds of the tax to be used by the Mississippi Gulf Coast Regional Convention and Visitors Bureau; and, WHEREAS, Supervisors hereby find and adjudicate that the imposition and designation of the tax on hotels, motels, and similar establishments in Hancock County as allowed in Senate Bill No. 3072, Regular Session 2018, is for and in the public interest and welfare of the citizens of Hancock County, as such proceeds will be used by the Mississippi Gulf Coast Regional Convention and Visitors Bureau, together with funds from Harrison County and Jackson County, to advertise, promote, market and to otherwise bring into favorable notice the tourism opportunities, resources and attractions located in Hancock County, Mississippi and the Mississippi Gulf Coast, as such entity is authorized and required to do in accordance House Bill No. 1716, Local and Private Laws, 2013 Regular Session.

NOW, WHEREFORE, PREMISES CONSIDERED, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, finding the above and foregoing statements to be true and accurate, resolve as follows:

1. Supervisors hereby declare their intention to impose the taxes authorized by Senate Bill No. 3072, Regular Session 2018, in the amount of 2% of the gross proceeds of sales on rentals by hotels, motels and similar establishments in Hancock County. Supervisors declare their intention to dedicate and use the proceeds of the tax to the Mississippi Gulf Coast Regional Convention and Visitors Bureau, in the Supervisors discretion, for the reasons stated herein. Supervisors hereby fix June 18, 2018, as the date upon which the Board of Supervisors proposes to enact its resolution directing the levy and assessment of this tax and dedicating the use of all of those proceeds to the Mississippi Gulf Coast Regional Visitors Bureau.

2. Supervisors hereby direct that this resolution be publicized once each week for four (4) consecutive weeks in the Sea Coast Echo, a newspaper published and having general circulation in Hancock County, with the first publication being on May 26, 2018, again on June 2, 2018, again on June 9, 2019, and the final publication made on June 16, 2018. If, on or before the date specified in this resolution, twenty percent (20%) or one thousand five hundred (1,500), whichever is less, of the qualified electors in the County file a written protest against the imposition of the tax, then an election upon the levy and assessment of such tax shall be called and held as provided in Senate Bill No. 3072. If, within the time of giving notice, twenty percent (20%) or one thousand five hundred (1,500), whichever is less, of the qualified electors of Hancock County file a written petition against the proposed dedication and use of the proceeds of the tax, then such dedication and use of the proceeds of the tax shall not be dedicated and used as prescribed under this paragraph unless authorized by sixty percent majority of the qualified electors of Hancock County, voting at an election called and held for that purpose.

“Harvey” now playing at BSL Little Theatre

SEA COAST ECHO

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre will finish the season with the iconic Pulitzer Prize winning production “Harvey” written by Mary Chase. It was been adapted for film and television several times, most notably in a 1950 film starring James Stewart.

ACTORS IN REHEARSAL FOR THE BAY ST. LOUIS LITTLE THEATRE'S UPCOMING SHOW “HARVEY.” L TO R: JENNIFER NOLL, BARRY NEWMAN, AND ALANA FREIMANIS.

Elwood P. Dowd is an affable man who claims to have an unseen (and presumably imaginary) friend Harvey — whom Elwood describes as a six-foot, one-and-one-half-inch tall pooka resembling an anthropomorphic rabbit. Elwood introduces Harvey to everyone he meets. His social-climbing sister, Veta, increasingly finds his eccentric behavior embarrassing. She decides to have him committed to a sanitarium. When they arrive at the sanitarium, a comedy of errors ensues. The show is directed by Keith Gregory, assisted by Michael Brown, and produced by Cheryl Grace. The cast includes Barry Newman, Jennifer Noll, Alana Freimanis, Shannon Wooten, Bill Matkin, Bill Myers, Robert Smith, Jim Russell, Irv Hansen, Linda Allen, Michelle LeBlanc, and Gloria Noonan. Set is designed by Jen Coulter. Set construction is by Jen Coulter and Dean Noel. The stage manager is Jen Coulter. Light and sound is managed by Betsy Noll.

The show dates and times are June 2, 8, and 9 at 8pm and June 3 and 10 at 2pm. Doors open one hour before the show and seating starts 30 minutes before each show.

Tickets for the show can be purchased online at www.bsllt.org or purchased at Lulu's at 126

Main Street or Twin Light Creations at 136 Main Street. Ticket fees are $18 adults, $10 Seniors 65+, veterans, military, and students with ID, and $8 for children 12 and under. PHOTOS AND STORY BY SUE W. FOSTER

The Diamondhead Women's Club annual fundraiser, Glitzy Girlz, held on April 17 was a HUGE success!!!! This event benefits three worthy charities—Pink Hearts Funds, Pride with a Purpose, and Hancock County Food Pantry--and raised well over $16,300 which will be awarded at the October meeting. Over 175 costumed ladies were in attendance and included the one and only Marilyn Monroe and several real-life Barbie dolls, among many other original and creative get-ups including matching t-shirts and any number of flowered, feathered, or sequined outfits. There was something for everyone with events for the evening that included a silent auction, door prizes, great food and music, a 50/50 drawing, best individual and best group costumes. Many lovely and unique items were donated by local artists and individuals and fostered fierce bidding in a live auction that was the culmination of the evening of food, fun, and frivolity. Auctioneers Mary Mizell and Teresa Ertel kept the bidding going at an entertaining and energetic pace!

Dauterive, Susan Hightower, Cassandra Godbold, Tim and Kelly Kennedy, Carol Lilly, Jan Menker, Barbara Quebedeaux, Jan Wiley, Selina Rhodes and others—apologies in advance for anyone not mentioned! We couldn't have done it without ALL of you!!!! Music was provided by Ronnie Hammons for dancing 'til dawn (or a more reasonable facsimile thereof....) and was enjoyed by all.

Special thanks to the Diamondhead Country Club for providing the ballroom, a delicious buffet, and gift certificates for golf and dinners. Numerous local businesses and individuals pitched in with an amazing array of donations for everything including wine, resort vacations, English riding lessons, gift baskets, boat trips, pottery, artwork, clothing and jewelry, dinners, bowling, stained glass, artsy silver boots—you name it—it was offered and could be yours if you were the highest bidder! Centerpieces on each table were also available for bidding and were all made and donated by members. The entire Diamondhead Women's Club organization worked together for months to help make this one of the most successful fund-raising efforts on the Gulf Coast. The next fundraiser for the DWC will be a Sip and Dip (light dinner and wine included) taught by Sylvia Corbin to be held on Tuesday, June 26 from 6p.m.-9p.m. at the Community Center. In September, the program for the regular meeting will be a fashion show! The DWC meets the first Wednesday of each month (except during the summer) at the Diamondhead Country Club. If you are interested in joining or purchasing tickets to the Sip and Dip, contact 732.688.3456, 404.295.4261, or visit the DWC Facebook page.
